I have recently bought in the two device-Asus vivo tab smart and the Asus transboard keyboard. initially i was able to set up n paired up the two device. After i try turning off the keyboard, the blue tooth keyboard can only be recognized on windows with status "working properly", however it cant function properly.

Asus have told me that it is not a reoccurring issue! Not sure if it was the computer store or Asus who were more unhelpful, but it takes over a month to get a resolution on every RMA. Computer shop refuses to issue a refund, but have to replace the motherboard of each device as a 'precautionary measure'.
