Chaos Daemons are the ultimate enemy of the Imperium, perhaps more so than the Chaos Space Marines who worship them. Each one of them is an incarnation of the Dark Gods' will made of pure Warp energy, and therefore mortal concepts such as fear, exhaustion or pity are alien to them.

Warlord Traits - Like all of the new 6th Edition codices, Chaos Daemons come with their own unique Warlord Traits table - and one that, in my mind, is the strongest of those unique to an army so far. I make this comment when considering the special rules, deficiencies and strengths of the army - in the context of a Chaos Daemons army, these benefits should prove to be far more consistently ...

The first two can be acquired easily enough--Head to Black Library and look up Codex Chaos Daemons: Daemonic Incursion Edition. It may be eBook only, but it wraps up both the main Codex plus the Warzone Fenris goodies into one fairly cheap package. It's better than the FUCKING Chaos Space Marines--now sitting at one codex, four supplements and a basic requirement to have forge world to be ...

In 6th and 7th, despite their flaws, daemons struck me as having some of the fluffiest rules on the table top whereas throughout 8th they ' ve been one of the most boring factions. "Backfield? Daemons do not get access to magic items, which in 8th edition can be a bit of setback. However, they may purchase rolls on the Daemonic Gifts table, available to them in their army book and just like magic items, it's easy to go overboard with them. Your Greater Daemons get 100 pts. worth, Daemon Princes 75 and Heralds 50.

Great Unclean One- Sixth edition reworked how these guys roll. Tough as mutated nails and scary in close combat with a variety of decent upgrades you don't need (but might want). Only problem is, he's slower than a snail, can't run in the shooting phase or after he deep strikes, but fuck that.

Chaos Space Marines - sorry, Freedom Fighters - are the main antagonists of the Warhammer 40,000 setting, with the Horus Heresy arguably being the most pivotal moment of the W40K timeline. From a fluff-perspective, a Chaos Space Marine army can be a warband derived from one of the nine original Traitor Legions, or a more recent chapter of loyalists that has gone Renegade, or a mixture of both.
