Defies description, because I'm not Kathryn Davis. In a nutshell, it centres on lives on a street of duplexes and sycamores, at some undefined time which seems like the 1950s or 1960s, but your understanding of what surrounds

the participants keeps being augmented by oddities - the robots who live in some of the houses, the sound of raptors in

Duplex by Kathryn Davis - Goodreads

Reading Kathryn Davis' Duplex was a lot like walking into the middle of someone else's really bizarre dream. It's interesting and dizzyingly creative and Davis' storytelling ability was pretty magical and psychedelic throughout. It's less a novel and more a collection of interconnected short stories that take place at different times, but they feature the same characters—a powerful and ...
