Getting Ready To Help A

Seeking help is often the first step towards getting and staying well, but it can be hard to know how to start or where to turn to. It's common to feel unsure, and to wonder whether you should try to handle things on your own. But it's always ok to ask for help – even if you're not sure you are experiencing a specific mental health problem.

Getting your child ready for school every morning can be challenging and stressful. A predictable morning routine for school can help kids arrive at school ready to make the most of the first few hours of the day. So, teach them how to get into a daily routine with this 'Getting Ready For School' visual timetable. The images on the timetable will show your child what they need to do before ...

Now I am going to share my general approach in the lead up to the transition to help our kids get ready for year 7: Encourage self organisation
Our daughter is quite organised, but a secondary timetable requires some new organisational skills in terms of what to take to school each day, what order to tackle homework in and simply how to be in the right place at the right time.

Make a trip to the bathroom to brush your teeth, wash your face, and put on some deodorant, so you feel ready to face the workday ahead. Using a peppermint or other mint flavored toothpaste when you brush can help wake you up in the morning. You don't necessarily have to use soap or a facial cleanser to wash your face in the morning.
