In production from 1886 until 1935, the Winchester Model 1886 has that inimitable feel to its action; just working the lever gives the user an idea of its strength. The '86 action locks up like a bank vault, and that strong action allowed me to handload those 400-grain A-Frames — seated over a healthy charge of Hodgdon's BL-C(2)—to a muzzle velocity of just over 1800 fps from his 26-inch octagon barrel.
