The Euro-pallet size arose from the need to standardise pallet use in order to make the most of available space.

Consequently, the measurements of these pallets, known as EUR-pallet, EPAL-pallet or European Pallet, were determined from the UNE-EN 13698-1 standard in a European wide manner. According to the building specifications for these bases set out in this standard, the 800 x 1,200 mm

The top and bottom sections of the long side can be folded for easy access to the products. The high load capacity means that these pallet containers are particularly well suited for large and heavy goods. The containers have a solid steel frame for extra durability but are also easy on the goods which are to be transported. Pallet containers are ideal for demanding industries and other environments that require large and hardwearing containers.
