Thorsten's 35mm Summilux FLE ventilated shade with the Leica standard hood shown to the right (Photo Thorsten von Overgaard) The Q shade follows on from the earlier Overgaard-designed hood for the Leica 35mm Summilux-M ASPH f/1.4 FLE. That has proved to be very popular and is still available in black (at $149) or silver (at $159).

It was first really introduced to the market as Leica A at the 1925 spring fair in Leipzig, and then they sold 1,000 the first year.© 2012-2016 Thorsten Overgaard. The original camera (above) resides in a safe at Leica Camera AG. Probably only one (some say only two or three) were made, and this one was supposedly renovated after a fire.

C'mon, Thorsten. I have a Leica Q--and a Gordy's red-wrap leather strap, just like your Q's!--and have long looked for a different lens hood.Like you.And you finally took the bull by the horns and designed an excellent vented lens shade on you own, which you now offer for sale to we Leica Q owners. It's a masterful enterprise and you've produced a beautifully designed and, yep, even yummy, as ...
