Training is a performance organization, not a classroom or events management activity. The focus of the training organization is to help the business and individuals within the business to perform better. Our responsibility to the learner does not end when the course is over. It ends when an individual achieves a targeted level of performance.

Overview. Significant and ongoing change in society and the workplace dictate the need for special talents and abilities on the part of those administering training at every level of law enforcement. The time when an organization arbitrarily assigns someone to be a “training manager” should be over. Recent events and litigation, scrutiny by the U.S. Department of Justice, have demonstrated once again, that the training responsibility reaches well beyond the walls of the classroom or ...
