Audi A4 Manual Transmission Problems
This article applies to the Audi A4 (2005-2008). The transmission fluid in the Audi A4 is designed to last for a long time; according to Audi, it is good for the life of the car. Most service people you ask, though, would recommend you change it at least every 100k miles, and anything less than 50k miles is going to be overkill.

Fortunately, changing manual transmission fluid in the A4 is actually easier than changing the oil, at least in a manual transmission car, because you don't have to change the filter as well. You simply drain the old lubricant and find a way to fill the transmission with new fluid. It's easier to do this job if you first raise the car to a level position (the fill hole, when the car is level, serves as the indicator that the transmission has the proper amount of oil in it), and then remove ...

Both Audi 80 and A4 have two unique features that make them different from similar cars. One of them is the drivetrain layout, representing the arrangement of the engine and gearbox within the car itself. Unlike other front-wheel drive cars, it has a longitudinally mounted engine with transaxle transmissions mounted at the rear.
