Melmoth by Sarah Perry is a 2018 Serpent’s Tale publication. I have not read ‘The Essex Serpent’ so I had no preset expectations for this book. The main draw for me was the advertised Gothic tone. The book delivers on that front, in spades!

Melmoth the Wanderer is an 1820 Gothic novel by Irish playwright, novelist and clergyman Charles Maturin. The novel's titular character is a scholar who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for 150 extra years of life, and searches the world for someone who will take over the pact for him, in a manner reminiscent of the Wandering Jew.

Maria was asked how she feels about critique. She loves it. It helps her grow and become a better version of herself. Diana Vishneva's feedback: Maria did very well but there were some issues with the fourths position – it wasn't very "clean" once again (this appears to be an ongoing issue). Diana would've used more of the space, as the stage is quite large.

Melmoth as a character is slightly archetypal, resembling the Wandering Jew of Medieval Christian folklore and is sufficiently haunting. I enjoyed the mystery surrounding him and it's a fun October read, leading up to Halloween.
