Pentecost is this Sunday. Enjoy this beautiful poem by John Birch — Pentecost. When was the last time that we heard the wind of your Spirit roar through this place? When was the last time your fire lit up this room? When was the last time we took you at your word and met together in expectation of your Spirit filling this place.

A Poem for Pentecost—GodspaceLight
From the fields it came: the first sheaf of barley cut for that year's harvest. It was carried high through streets crammed with visitors, and on to the Temple. And then the priest offered it to God, giving thanks for the good land, and for the gift of harvest. For that day was the celebration of the first fruits.

In his poem Pentecost, William Blake's repetition of the word, "unless" might be received by the reader as an onerous, guilty-inducing, commission. Unless his repetition of the word "catch" is given equal time, we might tend to turn our soggy pockets inside out and offer up a defeated shrug in lieu of prayer.

Today we feel the wind beneath our wings Today the hidden fountain flows and plays Today the church draws breath at last and sings As every flame becomes a Tongue of praise. This is the feast of fire,air, and water Poured out and breathed and kindled into earth.

Pentecost poem | Malcolm Guite
This was our Pent- ecostal hour. "Pentecost Villanellette" by Mark DeBolt. Not as a dove the Holy Spirit came. to the disciples gathered in a room, but as a violent wind and tongues of flame, A cyclone roared the ineffable name. as fire on each blushing brow did bloom. Not as a dove the Holy Spirit came.
