"Beowulf" is the oldest surviving epic poem in the English language and the earliest piece of vernacular European literature. Perhaps the most common question readers have is what language "Beowulf" was written in originally. The first manuscript was written in the language of the Saxons, "Old English," also known as "Anglo-Saxon." Since then, the epic poem has been estimated to have been translated into 65 languages.

In 1993 I published my first book, The Origins of Beowulf and the pre-Viking Kingdom of East Anglia, now in its fourth print run. It is about the epic poem Beowulf, which is widely regarded as the first great work of English literature. Its primary purpose is to address the questions of when and where in England Beowulf was composed. I conclude that there are significant indications that it might have been in the Wuffing kingdom of East Anglia during the eighth century. Click here to order a ...

The author of Beowulf is a mystery, as most poets of the Anglo-Saxon period are. He might have been a court poet, or a monastic poet. Depending on the Christian interpretation of the poem, it could be either. The date that Beowulf was conceived is uncertain, but can be narrowed down, depending on where it was created. It was definitely composed after Hygelac's death in 521AD, and most likely after 580AD, because that is the assumed date of Beowulf's death.
