At the core of the concept of empowerment is the idea of power. The possibility of empowerment depends on two things. First, empowerment requires that power can change. If power cannot change, if it is inherent in positions or people, then empowerment is not possible, nor is empowerment conceivable in any meaningful way. In other words, if power can change, then empowerment is possible.

Empowerment: What Is It?

Empowerment is not forcing people to do what you believe to be best. It is offering guidance and advice and letting the person that you are empowering to analyze their situation, discover self determination, and finally giving them full and total authority over their decisions. To be empowering is difficult, there is no doubt about it.
