Talking really can help, whether it's with a professional counsellor like Helen, with a colleague, a friend or a family member. It can start with Time to Talk Day and end up with a longer conversation and a new path for you, or for somebody who needs you to start the conversation with them. Let's all harness the power of talking.

Judgments about confidence can be inferred only from the way people present themselves, and much of that behavior is in the form of talk. Communication isn't as simple as just saying what you mean.

The Power Of Talk: Closing The Diversity Gap

The Power of Talk: Who Gets Heard and Why Deborah Tannen's article essentially points out that men and women have different ways of communicating. Women's conversational style is more towards developing rapport, providing support, or nurturing in such a way to show how they are attune to communication.

The Power of Talk: The head of a large division of a multinational corporation was running a meeting devoted to per- formance assessment. Each senior manager stood up, reviewed the individuals in his group, and eval- uated them for promotion. Although there were women in every group, not one of them made the cut.

Men are more sensitive to the power dynamics of interaction: speak in ways that put them in one-up positions and resist being put in one-down positions by other people. Women react more strongly to the raport dynamic, speaking in ways that 'save face' for others and use moderate statements that can be seen as putting others in a one-down position.
